

Abstract

Novel forms of molybdenum metal, and apparatus and methods for production thereof. Novel forms of molybdenum metal are preferably characterized by a surface area of substantially about 2.1 m<sup>2</sup>/g to substantially about 4.1 m<sup>2</sup>/g. Novel forms of molybdenum metal are also preferably characterized by a relatively uniform size.